Butting Bossy Not So Contented

After leading seven policemen a merry chase through South Philadelphia streets, this cow was finally captured and tied fast by Patrolmen Edward Winkler (kneeling) and Frank Caccuro. The battering bossy butted her captors in bull style and at one time, during a more than an hour chase, hurled herself over a passing automobile.

AL Asks Congress Probe Vet Bureau

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—The American Legion called on Congress today for an immediate investigation of a "tragic breakdown" in the Veterans' Administration under Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who took over as chief less than six months ago. John Stelle, Legion national commander, made the demand for action in letters to all members of Congress and said the lawmakers should see

Truman Calls Steel Facts Board, Bowles

By Associated Press

Reports the Administration was ready to step into the steel stalemate again with a new proposal gained impetus today when President Truman summoned the steel fact-finding board and Price Administrator Bowles to the White House.

The fact-finding board was called to a late afternoon conference and an OPA official said Bowles has been asked to cut short a vacation in South Carolina and return to Washington immediately. Bowles was expected tonight or early tomorrow.

Plans for terminating the 12-day strike of 750,000 steel workers were reported in the hands of White House advisers, although these plans were said not to involve seizure, as yet.

The President told his press conference yesterday the Administration still was working on possible price increases for steel. Although Bowles was reported favoring a steel price increase not in excess of $2.50 a ton, the U. S. Steel Corp. said it would require a price increase "greatly in excess" of $6.25 a ton to meet the 18½ cents hourly wage increase the union demands.

More than 200,000 workers in 56 General Motors plants marked their 73d day on strike as a federal mediator in Detroit continued efforts to effect an agreement between the corporation and leaders of the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

The country's third major work stoppage involved 200,000 CIO electrical workers, who left their jobs on Jan. 15 from plants of General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors—the industry's big three. There are no prospects for early settlement and no conferences are scheduled to discuss the CIO United Electrical Workers Union demand for a $2 a day wage increase.

In addition to the country's three principal strikes, about 90 other labor disputes continued, making idle an additional 200,000.

New closings of industries because of the work stoppage in nearly 1500 steel and aluminum mills, ore mines and fabricating plants made idle about 55,000. The number included 20,000 Ford motor workers.

The strike control bill as a substitute for fact-finding legislation won almost solid support from House Republicans yesterday and by a vote of 258 to 114 it was to be considered immediately.

The bill would establish a national labor-management board to help settle labor disputes it determined affected the public interest. It also would outlaw violent picketing, provide for civil suits against violators of labor contracts and lay unions open to injunctions.

In Washington, the meat fact-finding board concluded public hearings after spokesmen for the meat packing industry urged the panel to make price recommendations simultaneously with recommendations for wage increase in the industry.

that their "mandates are no longer honored by the Veterans' Administration." His aides said release of the letter was preceded by an acrimonious telephone battle between Stelle and Bradley over major VA policies.

Stelle's letter to Congress claimed an inquiry was warranted because:

1—Between 300,000 and 500,000 disability cases cannot receive proper compensation without undergoing physical examinations because of VA's failure to secure adequate medical records from the Army and Navy.

2—The hospitalization applications of more than 7000 needy veterans await processing.

3—Thousands of Army hospital beds are not being utilized at a time VA hospitals are badly congested.

4—Unprocessed applications for education and training under the GI Bill of Rights total 102,839, in addition to 20,411 pending claims for insurance, premium waivers and 287,000 unanswered letters from veterans seeking information on various topics.

5—VA's "apparent failure" to procure enough competent personnel, and the continued use of incompetent and inexperienced employees.

Stelle asserted the figures he cited were "absolute minimum figures reflecting the extent of the neglect."

Referring to Bradley's appointment as administrator last August, Stelle said servicemen believed it meant "the antiquated and inefficient methods of the VA would be changed."

"However," he declared, "that has not been the case."

Several times recently Gen. Bradley himself has emphasized there is a backlog of mail which he is attempting to eliminate. Frequently 100,000 pieces arrive daily at the main office here.

Bradley has ordered all offices on a 24-hour basis, if necessary, to reduce the pile of unanswered mail and speed other services for veterans.

The Civil Service Commission also gave him permission to hire employees direct, without waiting approval in advance from the

Romanian Grenade Tossers Murder Russian Envoy

BUCHAREST, Feb. 1 (AP)—Bucharest newspapers announced today the assassination of the Russian lieutenant colonel attached to the Soviet section of the Allied Control Commission in Romania.

The reports said "unknowns" on Jan. 28 threw four hand grenades into his car as it passed on a highway, 25 miles north of Bucharest. (A Bucharest broadcast heard in London identified him as Lt. Col. Peter Nekrasnish.) An anti-Communist paper, the Jurnalul de Dimineata, said "the authors of this crime are enemies of this country who should be discovered and punished with the utmost severity."

British and American government personalities, as well as the Russians, attended the funeral. The Soviet ambassador made the funeral oration. He placed the blame on Fascist remnants in the country.

Bevin at UNO Flays Reds, Says Troops Stay in Greece

By KINGSBURY SMITH

LONDON, Feb. 1 (INS)—Great Britain today refused to meet a Soviet demand for the immediate withdrawal of all British troops from Greece.

The UNO Security Council, which heard both the demand and refusal, adjourned until Monday without taking action.

The adjournment was moved by U. S. Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin said:

"British troops will be withdrawn when Britain has discharged her obligations."

He added: "The incessant propaganda of the Moscow radio and the activities of the Communist party in every country against Great Britain is a danger to the peace of the world."

The demand and denial were made before the UNO Security Council.

Foreign Vice-Commissioner Vishinsky made the demand in the name of the Soviet government.

Bevin denied it in the name of the British government.

The two diplomats, who engaged in a long and bitter dispute Wednesday regarding Iranian protests against Russia, painted entirely different pictures of the situation in Greece.

The head of the Greek delegation to the UNO was strangely absent and the London Evening Star reported Greek Premier Rentis, who hoped to fly to London, was detained at Corinth by police on a "Left Wing" charge.

Bevin said, at one point:

"The British government has been charged through that extraordinary organization called the Communist party and which seems to act with extraordinary unanimity . . . all communications from all parts of the world come in identical language . . . when Britain is attacked."

Bevin charged further the civil war in Greece "was started by Communists in an effort to form a minority government."

He said Britain could have put its "own" government into Greece

'Hell's Half Acre' Curley Vice Target

"Boston is today regarded everywhere as a dump for obscenity on the stage," Mayor Curley declared today at a meeting in his office with 12 theater representatives and Chairman Mary E. Driscoll and Walter Meins of the licensing board. He demanded an immediate cleanup of theaters, night clubs and cafes.

The Mayor referred to the Essex st. district between Washington st. and Harrison ave. as "Hell's Half Acre," and told Miss Driscoll more soldiers and sailors were ruined in that district during the war than in all the rest of the city. "It's worse than Scollay sq.," the Mayor said.

The mayor said night clubs, too, should be made to observe the rules more closely.

"They should be required to observe the moral law in entertainment as well as any other group," he told Miss Driscoll and Meins. In referring to "Hell's Half Acre" the mayor said:

"We ought to call on the people who are operating those places—if they are not running them properly—to close up. We should revoke their licenses."

"The clergy are up in arms," he continued. "The time has come to end this holiday in vice. I can't understand how it was allowed."

Miss Driscoll told the mayor the operators of these places have been on the "carpet" frequently.

In speaking of the mayor's demand that the theaters be cleaned up, Miss Driscoll said:

"Some of the bald-headed old fellows who go to those places think a show isn't any good without filth."

Some of the posters displayed in the lobby and out in front of Boston burlesque theaters are said to be a disgrace, Miss Driscoll told the mayor she could see little difference between Sunday entertainment and that offered week-days in Boston theaters and night clubs.

The mayor told the theater representatives that he had received complaints against female impersonators, the portrayal of sex vices, use of drugs, moral perverts, repulsive contortionists, indecent placards and dialogue detrimental to race, creed and color.

Curley told the theater men "you know right from wrong just as well as the ministers." He then asked if they understood what he was telling them. The group remained silent.

The Mayor then asked for suggestions but nobody offered any and the meeting was closed.

She Makes Jail Visit to Pastor-Poisoner of Daughter

Baby Girl, 2, Lost in Southie, Home Again

A brown-eyed little girl found wandering last night near Broadway and F st., South Boston, crying for "Mummy," was today reunited with her father, who identified her at the Chardon st. home as Catherine McKenzie, 2½, of West Third st.

The child's mother, Mrs. Winifred McKenzie, went to South Boston police before dawn today to report the little girl missing.

She was told the youngster had been taken to the home for the night. A short while later the father, John McKenzie, claimed Catherine.

She was found about 8:30 last night dressed in a pink snowsuit wandering about. A woman walked with the child for some time, hoping to locate the parents, but failing, finally took her to police.

Police at the Athens st. station entertained the little wanderer while telephone messages were broadcast, giving her description and assuring those concerned of her safety.

When no response was received to the messages, police brought the girl to the home, where Miss Hazel Corbett, superintendent, took charge. The youngster was given warm food and made comfortable.

Page was treated at Lewis Wharf for shock and immersion and sent home.

Five Daughters Aiding Pastor, Killer of Sixth

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 1—Five daughters of Rev. Frank E. Siple, 53, suburban church pastor who pleaded guilty to the poison-slaying of his sixth daughter, Dorothy Ann, 18, were rallying to his aid today, as a board of three psychiatrists was appointed by Circuit Judge Leonard Verdier to examine him as to his mental capacity to stand trial.

His second wife and a daughter, Jeanette, a WAVE, who came here from her post at Mare Island, Cal., to be with her father, were in court when the pastor of the Southlawn Park Church of God entered his plea of guilty to a first degree murder charge.

Besides Jeannette, his other daughters are Marcella, an Army nurse stationed at El Paso, Tex.; Virginia, in Chicago; Mrs. Marjorie Wyse of Rochester, Minn.; and Mrs. Mildred Niles of Grand Rapids. All five, with the dead girl, were daughters by his first marriage.

Kent County Prosecutor Menso R. Bolt disclosed that Siple had confessed to giving Dorothy Ann poison because she was mentally ill and he did not want to see her go to an asylum.

Bolt said the confession came after Siple was confronted with a report showing arsenic was found in his daughter's body after it had been exhumed. Her death occurred July 31, 1939.

Judge Verdier announced today that Siple would be brought into court again after the sanity commission reports its findings. The judge said that if found to be insane, the defendant would be committed to an asylum.

Siple's arraignment culminated a series of events that began on New Year's Day when he was arrested on complaint of Lyle Doan, 42, elder of Southlawn Park church, who charged Siple hit him over the head with an iron pipe.

Prosecutor Bolt said that when police went to Siple's home to take him into custody Jan. 1, they found him overcome by illuminating gas in the basement of his home. The officers, who revived him, reported they found gas jets turned on.

Bolt said that during the investigation Doan turned over a box of candy which he reported had been sent to him at Christmas by the minister. State Police toxicologists said it contained poison.

Prosecutor Bolt said he then began the investigation into Dorothy Ann's death for "a number of reasons." He declined to elaborate.

Blizzard Halts Plane Search

ELK MOUNTAIN, Wyo., Feb. 1 (AP)—A blinding blizzard halted attempts to scale the perilous sides of 11,125-foot Elk Mountain today in search of the wreckage of a United Air Lines transport plane believed to have crashed near the mountain's summit yesterday, with 21 persons aboard.

Visibility on the peak was reported less than 50 feet, and oldtimers said the storm might last a week.

An eight-man party fought to within 300 feet of the summit last night, but were forced back by a 75-mile-an-hour wind and 40-below-zero cold.

They saw no signs of wreckage as they approached the spot.

Melrose Woman Wins in Car Suit

A directed verdict for Mrs. Alice E. Scofield of Melrose, one of three defendants in an auto damage suit brought by two Greater Boston dancers, was ordered today by Judge Collins as a Suffolk Superior Court jury was given the case.

Veterans Clog N. E. Colleges

New England's 40 colleges and universities, crowded to capacity by 67,000 students, must turn away many thousands of veterans and prospective students for the spring terms because of housing conditions and lack of qualifications for a college education, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Educators said the situation would not be eased for at least a year and it may take three or four years "to get back to normal."

Colleges in this area are faced with more students who wish to take academic courses than ever before, and veterans are storming every available facility.

Many must be turned away, however, because they do not have the required abilities or pre-college preparation. Of the students who have applied for admission, nearly 13,000 are veterans.

Most colleges report they have been forced to place restrictions on those applying and accept only students who possess superior academic qualifications or who left the institution to enter the armed forces and wish to return.

The six New England universities have limited entering students to in-state residents and veterans only.

Vermont is not accepting students for later admission. At Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, applications may be deferred for another term or two.

Dartmouth College holds little hope for applicants now, reporting it will be three to five years before it returns to normal.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology has been receiving 3000 petitions a month, and can accept only one-tenth, while Harvard estimates roughly 6000 applicants have been turned away.

Students rejected in many cases are advised to apply to smaller colleges, junior colleges or commercial schools.

Many who do not have sufficient training to pursue college-level study are advised to prepare for a year or two at a lower academic rank.

St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N. H., said nearly all its applicants want science and mathematics, and Assumption College, Worcester, reports veterans seek the practical as opposed to the liberal type of education.

Journalism, creative writing, crime detection and industrial design have been preferred at Harvard, and the accent has been on accounting and Russian at Williams College, Williamstown.

Short refresher courses have been requested at Simmons and the University of Maine, with straight engineering and business administration popular at Bates College, Me.

Veterans already returned to college, on the basis of records available, have in general a higher scholastic rating than non-vets.

It is heartening to note, many educators reported, the ex-service-man has a more serious purpose in life than his civilian counterpart and many have returned to studies more mature and self-sufficient.

18 Cities Apply For Home Units

Eighteen Massachusetts cities and towns have applied for surplus federal housing units for veterans and their families, the State Housing Board today informed Gov. Tobin.

The committees were authorized to apply for these prefabricated houses under terms of an act signed by the Governor last week. The act was rushed through the Legislature so applications could be filed before today, the deadline set by Federal Public Housing Authority.

The Bay State's quota is 3500 units. The houses are four-room structures formerly used as dormitories and barracks. They have two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath.

Communities applying are Boston, Chelsea, Revere, Fitchburg, Gloucester, Marlboro, Norwood, Medford, Malden, Cambridge, Woburn, Gardner, New Bedford, Holyoke, Chicopee, Lowell, Beverly and Athol.

3 Youths Deny Attack on Girl

LEOMINSTER, Feb. 1—Three local youths today, in district court here, pleaded not guilty of criminal attack on a 19-year-old girl.

The three, Clement Cloutier, 20; Robert Belrose, 23, and Pvt. Francis Peterson, 20, were held in $2,500 for a hearing tomorrow. Belrose and Cloutier were returned here from Greenville, S. C., where they were arrested. Peterson was arrested in Worcester last night.

Police Chief George H. Smith said the men had offered to drive the girl to her home on the night of Jan. 13, but instead took her to a wooded section, where they attacked her.

Canine Corporal Back From War

"Cpl." Derek Dunn came home to Boston today after three years in the Pacific as combat messenger dog with the Marine Corps.

The corporal, enrolled in the Marine K-9 in January, 1943, jumped with joy when his crate was opened at North Station and he saw his owners, S-Sgt. and Mrs. Frank L. Dunn of Highland ave., Cambridge.

Just to prove he hadn't forgotten them Derek sat down and extended a paw—first trick his owners had taught him when he came to them an awkward, gangling Doberman Pinscher pup. Derek served with the Marines in the invasions of Bougainville, Tarawa, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and several other South Pacific islands. While the dog was carrying messages in Pacific combat zones his owner, Frank Dunn, was in Europe with the First and later the Third Army.

Mrs. Dunn said she had received several letters from the Marine who was Derek's handler in the Pacific.

"He is a New Yorker," she said, "and he asked if we would give Derek to him."

"But we are very much attached to the dog. We didn't give him to the Marines to get rid of him. My husband was going overseas and it was difficult to travel about the country with him. Now he is back, we hope to have him as a pet."

These Days Harry Hopkins

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

FEW MEN have risen to such powers as Harry Hopkins possessed and employed during the Roosevelt Administration.

Never elected to any office by the American People and only once, as Secretary of Commerce, holding a position in which he was directly responsible for his activities, he was, for many years, second only to Mr. Roosevelt himself in the control of the affairs of state.

It has been said that more documents were initialed H. H. in the Roosevelt than in the Hoover Administration.

It is difficult quite to understand his rise to power and his continuance in it so steadily. No other New Deal personality equalled him. Harold Ickes and Henry Wallace remained in authority as long, but neither of them quite matched Harry the Hop, as Mr. Roosevelt affectionately called him.

In fact, it was for a time a characteristic of the Roosevelt menage that the closer one got to the throne, the sooner his downfall.

Raymond Moley was once the keeper of the boss' conscience but he, like Tex Tugwell, soon fell from grace.

But Harry continued on, adding to his power, his authority and his honors. Yet he never built a personal machine nor curried mass popularity for himself.

ANALYSTS of the Roosevelt psychology have often explained it this way: Roosevelt was really a very lonely man, lacking, because of his family and his unfortunate invalidism, the normal contacts which are the lot of most men.

He was, they say, always in search of warm and sincere company. For a time, Tommy Corcoran amused him but he wearied of Tommy's egotism which is a normal reaction, since Roosevelt was himself egotistic.

Sam Rosenman's personality was never stimulating, as much as Roosevelt liked him around as a service man. Henry Morgenthau was too heavy-handed. And there was others whose psychological flaws soon became apparent. Harry Hopkins fitted Roosevelt's needs for a companion and friend.

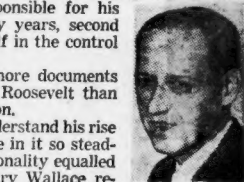

That might be it. Yet the two men were in no respect alike. Roosevelt was an aristocrat turned Democrat by politics; Hopkins was a Socialist turned aristocrat by circumstance.

Roosevelt was urbane, charming, catholic in his tastes; Hopkins was narrow, cynical, doctrinaire.

Roosevelt had always known wealth; Hopkins spent most of his life on small means and only enjoyed the luxuries of riches during the last three or four years before he died.

Perhaps it is opposites that attract, but it is hard to accept that as an explanation for the shifting of authority from the shoulders of the President of the United States to a man of no known or tried experience.

A more reasonable explanation

Harry Hopkins

lies in the curious nature of Mr. Roosevelt's regime. He established a political amalgam of discordant elements, many of which were in violent opposition to each other.

He never could permit his right hand to know where his left one was. He required as his intimate one whose personal loyalty to himself would never be doubtful. He required, for his legman, one who, in the British sense, would be a perfect servant.

THIS NEED increased as Mr. Roosevelt's ventures in international relations became more complex and secretive. He surely could not have found anyone in the State Department who would have kept all his secrets—his private counsels with Winston Churchill, even before Churchill became prime minister, his relations with Great Britain, prior to our entry into the war, the deals with Stalin, Moscow, Tehran and Yalta, his promises to Holland and China and to the Arabs.

He required a neutral personality who would regard everything the boss said and wanted and desired and did as right. He needed a man who would place Roosevelt not only above self but above country.

He certainly could not have found such a man in Cordell Hull or Henry Stimson or Frank Knox or Sumner Welles.

He did find such a man in Harry Hopkins, whose personal loyalty was so intense, so positive, so psychologically deep, that he developed a faculty to do his master's necessities with more than fair competence.

Jap War Tipoff Notes Destroyed

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (INS)—A Navy communications officer, who claims to have seen a true "winds" war warning from Japan, disclosed today naval personnel were ordered to "destroy anything we had in writing" a few days after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Capt. L. F. Safford told the Pearl Harbor committee the order to destroy any personal papers bearing on the Hawaiian disaster "came in the name of the chief of naval operations," Adm. Harold R. Stark.

Safford said this did not mean to destroy naval files but only "notes we had made ourselves."

Safford explained: "It was a terrible situation. Morale was low and they had to stop the whispering campaign then going on. It seemed to be perfectly logical at the time."

Safford also told the committee a Japanese "winds" message was intercepted in Washington three days before the attack and "meant war—and we knew it meant war."

The order for Safford and other section heads to have all their personal notes destroyed, the witness said, was issued at a conference on the Thursday or Friday following the attack by either Adm. Leigh Noyes, naval communications chief or his deputy, Capt. Redman. He added, however, it came in Stark's name.

The naval officers were given "specific orders not to talk," to keep secret any information they had, and "if we had anything in writing to destroy it immediately."

Chief Counsel Seth W. Richardson wanted to know to what information this referred and Safford said it related to the "circumstances leading up to Pearl Harbor."

The witness testified he was absent from the Navy Department from 4:30 p. m. Dec. 6 until about 8 a. m. Dec. 8, when he immediately called his aides to find out "how the fleet had been surprised."

Safford claimed the message, as translated by the then Lt. Comdr. Alwyn D. Kramer, announced "war with England, with the U. S. peace with Russia."

It was sent in Morse code—not in a voice broadcast—from Tokyo's foreign broadcasting station, "J. A. F." at 8:30 a. m. (Washington time) Dec. 4, and "was intended for London," Safford said.

Recalling that morning, Safford testified: "This is it!" said Kramer as he handed me the "winds" message. This was the broadcast we had strained every nerve to intercept. This was the feather in our cap.

"This was the tipoff which would prevent the U. S. Pacific fleet being surprised at Pearl Harbor by the way the Russians had been surprised at Port Arthur."

Churchills Leave Miami, Fly to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 1 (INS)—Winston Churchill left Miami today by private plane for Cuba, where he will spend a week as a guest of the Cuban government.

Col. Frank W. Clarke, the famed Briton's Miami Beach host, and Mrs. Churchill accompanied the English leader.

Wife, 20, Held As Polygamist, Freed for Day

Marie Marotta Lojko, 20, who yesterday pleaded guilty of polygamy, won temporary freedom today when Judge Jennie L. Barron postponed disposition until tomorrow.

Marie, whose tears moved a judge to give her husband a "break" on larceny charges two months ago, was released on personal recognizance after spending the night in Charles st. jail when she was unable to raise $500 bail.

She told Judge Barron she married Alfred Gregory, 22, last November when she heard rumors Edward S. Lojko of East Boston, now with the Army in Japan, had divorced her.

She said she and Lojko were married May 29, 1942, "my 17th birthday." She has a 2½-year-old baby from that marriage and is expecting a child by Gregory, she told the judge.

The probation officer disclosed that Lojko obtained a legal separation, but not a divorce.

Marie and Gregory went together to police to reveal the tangle. Gregory said he did not know Marie had been previously married until after he had wed her.

He was given three years' probation and a 14-month suspended jail term Dec. 3, 1945, when Marie tearfully pleaded with Municipal Judge Joseph Riley.

DIVORCE GRANTED—Mrs. Norma Lehto's charge that her husband was always drinking won her a divorce today in Suffolk Probate Court. She was freed from Arvo I. Lehto of West Canton st., South End.

Court Refuses Cut In Welansky Term

The appellate division of the Superior Court has refused the petition of Barnet Welansky, Coconut Grove operator, for reduction of his 12-to-15-year prison term. Court Clerk

William M. Prendibie announced today.

The three superior court judges, Vincent Brogna, Walter L. Collins and Harold L. Williams, turned down the request despite an unprecedented personal appeal for Welansky by Atty. Gen. Barnes. Dist. Atty. Foley declined to make a recommendation.

Welansky was sentenced April 15, 1943, by Judge Hurley following conviction on manslaughter charges in the deaths of 498 persons in the Grove fire of Nov. 28, 1942.

At the hearing before the three-judge panel Jan. 18, Welansky pleaded "there was a wave of hysteria at the time of my trial." He said he doubted he would be convicted now.

Barnes told the judges that Welansky should be admitted to parole. This drew a quick interruption from Judge Williams, who declared:

"You are not the parole board, Mr. Attorney-General."

Barnes' appeal surprised court attaches in view of the vigorous personal prosecution of Welansky's trial by former Atty.-Gen. Bushnell.

British Officers Walk Off Ship

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Fifteen British naval officers walked off their supply ship and refused to sail yesterday.

The 15—one lieutenant and the rest sub-lieutenants—were scheduled to make their last trip on the 3000-ton Fifteen and be mustered out. Lt. J. W. Meldrum, assistant British naval liaison officer, described the case as "the first of its kind in the port of New York."

The officers protested to the captain of the Fifteen, which sailed without them, that their quarters in a large compartment fitted with double bunks and designed for an original Indian crew were not livable.

Bill to Boost Women's Power On Parole Board to Be Aired

Legislation seeking to unify the State Parole Board by increasing authority and salaries of women members will be acted on Tuesday by the House rules committee, it was announced today.

The committee will rule on the admissibility of the bill, filed by Rep. John H. Valentine of Chelsea, House majority leader, on behalf of the Women's Committee for United Action, after the deadline for filing proposed legislation had passed.

The women's committee sponsored the measure as a result of the recent resignation of Mrs. Ruth O'Keefe from the board in protest against "harsh treatment" of women prisoners. Her action was described as "an emotional outburst which did parole tremendous harm" by Chairman Matthew W. Bullock at the annual meeting of the United Prison Ass'n.

The proposed legislation would give women members of the board equal jurisdiction with men members in all parole cases and would pay them the full $5000 salary of a board member instead of the present half pay received by women members. At present men members have jurisdiction over all parole cases while women members are limited to cases relating to women.

In his address to the prison association, Bullock declared the fact the present board had turned down more female offenders than its predecessors, could not be construed as "harsh, arbitrary and inhuman treatment."

Bullock revealed that 36 per cent of women prisoners—or 141 of 393 seeking parole—were turned down. The previous parole board headed by Reuben Lurie rejected only 14.6 per cent, or 48 out of 329 women applying for freedom in 1941, Bullock's figures disclosed.

Bullock denied, however, that this indicated "a stiffening of policy" by the present board. He said in 1941 war industries had begun to boom and job opportunities for women were more plentiful. "In 1945 we had the backwash of the war years for fewer jobs," he explained.

He admitted that he agreed with Mrs. O'Keefe that the law making adultery a felony should be changed to a misdemeanor. "The whole board has appeared before the judicial council to urge that this archaic law be changed," he asserted.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (AP)—The animal welfare league is looking for a permanent home for Elmer, a gentle skunk with polished claws and a sweetly perfumed coat.

Mrs. Josephine Rutson, league manager and present custodian of Elmer, said she had turned down some requests for the woods kitty as she wanted Elmer's new owner to have experience in caring for a skunk.

Sgt. Earl Cummins left Elmer at the league's shelter. He said the Army was no life for skunks.

New Yugoslav Rule Like Reds

BELGRADE, Jan. 31 (delayed), (AP)—Yugoslavia's new constitution, proclaiming the war-torn nation a republic, was approved unanimously tonight and Marshal Tito was named prime minister.

The public galleries were packed and a score of diplomats, including William Fraleigh, second secretary of the United States embassy, watched the constituent assembly establish a federative republic which places Yugoslavia under a government whose structure closely follows that of Russia.

Besides ending the monarchy, the constitution separates church from state and provides for the distribution of land among those who actually cultivate it.

That's $14.90, according to our multiplication table, and believe it or not, it sounds improbable. Madame . . . well, Madame . . . singer of high repute, saw the same dress when she purchased in Filene's Basement on sale in . . . for $15.00. Did you see the picture story on this noted singer in a recent Sunday Retrograde section? . . . As a matter of fact she intended to purchase this $15.00 gown at $35, the price to which it had been reduced when she was shopping in a noted dress salon. But she decided to look around, and down she came to her favorite "haunt", Filene's Basement. Of course, was the "haunt" referred to and to her astonishment—there was a replica of the dress she had almost purchased for $35. The dress was a sheer gray formal type of gown that had come to this unique store through its purchases of exclusive specialty shops. If we could mention the name of the shop you would immediately recognize it—the specialty shop price was $29.75, and via the bargain rack of The Only Store Of Its Kind In The World, this dress, closed out with other specialty shop surplus stock, was priced but $14.90! Of course, Madame . . . was thrilled. Being smart work, you know, her appearance is almost as important as her voice, and I guess the moral of this story is, that while it's nice to be able to afford to patronize the lush shops where you find decorative "gingerbread", and fancy shawls, you can save a heap more money where there is no overpriced decor, but where all the overboard and theatrical props are deleted in order to give you "bargain finds"—Filene's Basement—with its downright, LOW priced inimitable bargains!

Hub Envoy to Fight Land Grab

Mayor Curley today requested the city's corporation counsel to assign a legal assistant to represent Boston at a hearing to be held Tuesday at Washington, to register Boston's opposition to the move by Interior Sec. Ickes to establish federal rights to all submerged and reclaimed land in coastal areas.

Terning the Ickes action "preposterous," Mayor Curley declared it "deserving of the opposition of every right thinking American."

"These properties have been developed largely by the various states, municipalities, towns and counties and by private capital and such a proposal is unthinkable," Mayor Curley asserted. "Many millions of dollars have been invested in properties that would be subject to seizure in the event that Ickes' preposterous proposition were adopted."

The opposition of Massachusetts' spokesmen—and of representatives of 45 other states—will be presented at a special hearing before the U. S. Senate judiciary committee in an effort to speed legislative action to establish the ownership issue in favor of the states, thus blocking the Ickes action, initiated in a Supreme Court test case against California.

Legal experts have pointed out that, if successful, the Ickes action would invalidate title to more than a half-billion dollars worth of property in Boston alone.

This is due to the fact that in the Back Bay, downtown and waterfront areas much of the city's industrial and commercial property embraces "made," or reclaimed, land.

Under the Ickes action, the federal government could claim title to such lands valued at at least one hundred billion dollars in 26 coastal and Great Lakes states.

In Massachusetts, a decision in favor of the government would also threaten the state's rights to its $8,000,000-a-year shellfish industry, because the Ickes action seeks to establish Federal rights to all areas from the low-tide mark to three miles at sea.

Gov. Tobin has announced that the Commonwealth will exert all its powers to protect the rights of

Boston American, Feb. 1—9

Massachusetts citizens and communities against the land-grab action.

Poultry Plentiful, Other Meat Scarce

Meat supplies in Boston will not be back to normal until the latter part of next week despite the return to work of packing house workers, Faneuil Hall meatmen said today.

Although beef and lamb supplies were limited, marketmen said there was a plentiful supply of poultry.

Pauley Oil Suit Bid To Ickes Revealed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (INS)—Interior Secretary Ickes told a congressional committee today Edwin W. Pauley promised to raise a huge political fund contributed by California oilmen if a suit to establish federal ownership of tidewater oil lands was dropped.

Ickes testified at the Senate naval affairs committee's hearing on Pauley's nomination as under-secretary of the Navy. He was asked by Sen. Tobey (R.) of New Hampshire:

"Did Pauley come to you and tell you that the filing of the suit would be had politically and promise you that several hundred thousand dollars could be raised from California oilmen if the suit were dropped?"

Ickes replied: "That is a highly embarrassing question to me but the answer is yes. I told Pauley I could not let that enter into my consideration."

At that time Pauley was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

Tobey recalled Pauley testified under oath yesterday he had no interest in the tidewater suit and had made no effort to stop it.

Ickes observed: "I do not consider that an accurate statement."

Ickes said Pauley told him he had discussed the suit with President Roosevelt but had not indicated the President's reaction.

Ickes declined to comment on what he thought of Pauley's qualifications for the navy post.

ATC Operates Westover Field

CHICOPEE, Feb. 1.—Westover Army Air Field today became one of the world's most important aerial ports when the North Atlantic wing of the Army Air Transport Command assumed operational control of the base.

A big fleet of giant C-54's, now at Wilmington, Del., will be transferred to Westover later this month, Brig. Gen. Haywood S. Hansell, Jr., wing commander, said. The field will also replace LaGuardia Field, N. Y., as the passenger and freight terminal for ATC.

Included among the units to be based at Westover is the Globemaster. ATC's famed round-the-world airline, which transports diplomats and other high government officials to all parts of the world.

When the transfer is complete, flights will originate at Westover for Europe, Africa and the Far East.

UNO Unit Off for London Tomorrow, Gripes Mount

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (INS)—The UNO world capital inspection group will fly back to London tomorrow night glad to escape the flood of complaints and new site offers still pouring in.

Thousands of letters, telephone calls and hundreds of visitors have made the last week of the site-seeing tour pretty hectic.

While Williamsburg, Va., and Asbury Park, N. J., were proposing themselves as sites, other towns were issuing "we don't want it" communiques.

Mayor Daniel F. McLean of Beverly, Mass., said the committee toured the wrong 54 square miles when it visited the Massachusetts North Shore. He said his committee's proposal was entirely different.

Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the visiting delegation, refused to answer a charge by Mayor Clyde Potts of Morristown, N. J., that it was in the bag for Hyde Park, N. Y., all the time. Potts said his city was treated "shabbily" when the UNO group failed even to visit it.

Gov. M. Q. Sharpe of South Dakota added "steaks three inches thick" to the advantages which the Black Hills have to offer.

In Hyde Park, a dispute was raging whether the delegates were shown more land than the local committee was empowered to offer. The controversy seemed to hinge on whether the boundaries on a map were arbitrary or official.

Supervisor James D. Hopkins of Northcastle, N. Y., charged a UNO engineer had enlarged the Stamford-Greenwich site to 142 square miles, including a fourth of Westchester County. Gavrilovic replied he wanted no more than 40 to 50 square miles altogether.

Gavrilovic said the General Assembly may not move to the United States until next September. However, he reminded the New York city UNO committee that space may be needed as early as April.

Gavrilovic said there will be a peace conference in Paris starting in May, and the old League of Nations will have to hold a final session before liquidating.

51 of Bandit Gang Arrested in Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 1 (AP)—The American-sponsored German news agency Dana reported from Munich today police had arrested 51 members of a bandit gang whose leaders said they were allied with a country-wide outlaw organization known as "Edelweiss Pirates." The Bavarian gang admitted a series of burglaries, baggage thefts, black-marketing and forgeries.

Chiang Hints at End Of His Leadership

CHUNGKING, Feb. 1 (AP)—The emergence of China's millions from civil strife into a day of full freedom for all political parties was viewed today by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as possibly foreshadowing an end to his leadership.

The man whose one-party rule has continued for 18 years said that from now on the heavy task of rebuilding the nation rested not alone on the Kuomintang "much less on me as an individual."

"Whether in the government or out of it," he told last night's closing session of the historic political consultation conference, he would sincerely work for peace and solidarity.

He pledged that all the far-reaching decisions of the unity conference would be carried out. These included: Free and open activities by all political parties; nationalization of the army; nationwide compulsory education; and economic reconstruction.

Chou En-Lai, No. 2 Communist who helped reach the unity conference accord, today expressed full confidence that there will be no more civil strife in China.

He said that apart from minor clashes in Shantung and the East river district of Kwantung, near Canton, peace prevails throughout the country.

He affirmed that the Communist Party is prepared to carry out fully all agreements reached at the conference.

Chou said Communist forces would be reduced to 20 divisions, which would entail demobilization of about three-fourths of the army. The generalissimo stressed two points:

1—Repeal or amendment of all existing wartime laws conflicting with freedoms of the people.

2—Guarantee of freedom of learning, with religious beliefs and political ideologies not allowed to interfere with school and college administration.

Tickets Tip Over Cars in Strike at Worcester

Two autos carrying foremen to the strike-bound Johnson and Wire Co., Worcester, were tipped over by pickets today in the first violence of New England labor disputes as a CIO order warned in Springfield that a general strike might be called in that city.

Worcester police said the violence occurred when a picket tipped on the ice as the cars were passing him and more than 100 throw-strikers mistakenly thought he had been struck by a foreman's car.

No one was injured and police aid the pickets, informed of the mistake, apologized and righted the cars, which were only slightly damaged.

Springfield Facing General Strike Threat

Springfield today was faced with the threat of a general strike. The warning was voiced by Herman Greenberg, president of the Western Massachusetts CIO Council in an address to strikers at the Westinghouse Electric Co. plant.

Elsewhere on the troubled New England labor front there were no major developments. The wildcat strike of 250 truck drivers in the Merrimack Valley continued and Lawrence police were called twice to aid trucks who attempted to run the blockade of pickets.

In Framingham 300 CIO rubber workers struck in demand for a 10-cent wage increase from the Hodgman Rubber Co. and in Fitchburg 600 employees of the Independent Lock Co. struck when negotiations for a wage boost broke down.

Cars Overturned In GM Strike

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (INS)—A veteran-sponsored back-to-work parade at a strike-bound plant of General Motors at suburban La Grange, Ill., met with failure today when 2000 CIO pickets blocked entrances to the factory.

Two automobiles were turned over and only the presence of county police prevented more serious disorder.

The plant, known as the McCook electro-motive division of General Motors, has been closed by a strike of CIO farm equipment workers.

A car driven by a discharged veteran was the first tipped over by pickets. When he tried to drive through CIO lines strikers surged around it and turned it over. Later the strikers righted the vehicle.

A car driven by Don Winslow, the plant's assistant superintendent, was turned over when he tried to go through the picket lines without showing a pass. Windows in the car were smashed.

Death Pact Fails, Brother Held as Sister's Slayer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 1 (AP)—Robert James Hoffman, 39, was held here today for Warren County authorities on a charge of murder following the death of his sister, Mrs. Alice Louise Mc-

Daniel, 36. Police said Hoffman drove to the Jefferson County Jail yesterday with the body of his sister in an automobile and said, "I have a dead girl in my car."

Hoffman, a serviceman for a Louisville utilities firm, was quoted by authorities as saying he and his sister drove to a grove Wednesday night and "decided to end everything."

Hoffman said he attached a hose to the exhaust of his automobile, put the other end in his automobile and left the engine running. Coroner Roy L. Carter said Mrs. McDaniel, who had been separated from her husband about six 20—Boston American, Feb. 1 months, died of gas poisoning. Hoffman said he regained consciousness yesterday morning and drove back to Louisville with his sister's body.

Mother of Three Vanishes After Winning Divorce

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 1 (AP)

—Police Chief A. E. Kimberling today said all efforts to locate Mrs. Ruth W. Stuckert, 36-year-old University of Louisville French teacher reported missing since Wednesday night, have failed.

An abandoned automobile and driver's license identified by Kimberling as Mrs. Stuckert's was found on the Ohio river municipal bridge Wednesday night, only a few hours after she was granted a divorce from Albert Stuckert, owner and operator of the Stuckert Equipment Co. of Louisville.

Kimberling declined to reveal the contents of a note he said she left at her home for her former husband and her attorney, Percy Booth. A note addressed to her son, James, one of her three children, directed him to "take the other children to a neighbor's home and see that they receive breakfast."

Although Stuckert said he was convinced his wife did not jump into the river from the bridge,

Wanna Buy Sub?

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1 (INS)—Want a slightly used submarine?

The Navy advertised in San Francisco newspapers the sale of "one (1) condemned submarine" of approximately 800 gross tons.

The ad warned that bids will be accepted only until Feb. 20.

Kimberling said coast guardsmen had been dragging.

"I believe she is suffering from amnesia because of her hard study and strain," Stuckert said.

Mrs. Stuckert, who has taught at the university for two years, is a graduate of the Sorbonne, Paris; Radcliffe College, Boston, and Mt. Holyoke College.

Boston American, Feb. 1—25

THE LAND GRAB

CALIFORNIA has filed a formal reply with the Supreme Court of the United States to the suit of the Government of the United States which seeks to establish Federal title to all submerged and reclaimed lands in the coastal waters of the nation and to all mineral and other resources therein contained.

The right of the Federal Government to do this is denied and protested by the State of California, not only in behalf of itself but in behalf of the 26 coastal and Great Lakes States which are similarly involved.

There is no doubt whatever that the vital interests of all these states are equally menaced, although the Federal Government is proceeding in the present instance against California alone—the object being to establish a principle of law against California, and thereafter to apply it against each and all of the States in their turn.

THE OTHER STATES, including Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut, are very foolish to let California stand ALONE in resisting the Federal Government on this issue.

The oil and mineral resources in the California tidelands are only the IMMEDIATE object of the Federal Government in the present suit.

All of the coastal and Lakes states have submerged and reclaimed lands as rich in resources as those of California.

Virtually all of New York City's vast waterfront property is in that category.

A fabulously valuable part of our own Back Bay region is similarly classified.

The biggest LAND GRAB in the history of the American nation is thus in prospect.

More than SIXTY-FIVE THOUSAND SQUARE MILES of developed or potentially rich land, to which the States have had undisputed and acknowledged title since the first days of the Republic, are affected.

WHY IS the Federal Government suddenly coveting these rich lands to which it has never before laid claim?

Why is the Federal Government coming thus belatedly, after more than a century and a half of unqualified recognition and acceptance of State sovereignty over the affected areas, into the courts to challenge a principle of basic law and respected title upon which the States have so long relied?

The answer is that our expanding American bureaucracy, unstable in its appetite for power and arrogant in its assumption of power and unrestrained by either historic precedent or moral principle in its quest for power, is grasping for the greatest INSTRUMENTS of power ever contemplated and coveted by bureaucratic minds.

California should not be left to make this fight alone.

There is a bill pending in Congress forever to QUIET all State titles in the disputed tidelands, submerged or reclaimed.

It has been passed by the House of Representatives with only ELEVEN dissenting votes.

It is scheduled for hearing in the Judiciary Committee of the Senate this month, and it should be PASSED by the Senate—and every American State and every American citizen should insist upon and demand and COMPEL final and irrevocable preservation of this fundamental and historic right of the American people to perpetual possession and use of their own lands and resources.

AMERICAN bureaucracy has made its boldest and most brazen bid for TOTALITARIAN RULE over the American people in this action against California.

It is bent on UPROOTING DEMOCRACY, and it is in contempt of all AMERICAN concepts of government.

This may very well be the CROSSROADS of our national destiny, with our ultimate way of life depending on which road we take—the road of bureaucracy being the sure road to political and economic slavery, the road of our democratic American forefathers being now, as always, the ONLY road men aspiring to freedom may travel.

Bureaucracy has FORCED this fight, not upon California alone, but upon all of the States and all the American people.

INSTEAD OF bridge, many couples meeting for an evening of diversion now play poker. It's a mistake. No man should play poker with a woman. Females are dynamite in poker games. All women are born actresses and accomplished bluffers. Every man knows how difficult it is to figure out a woman's thoughts. So why risk your good money in a poker game with a woman? Such is the advice of our Horses & Women experts. And if you don't pay attention to it, mister, you'll be sorry.

SIDELIGHTS: Vivien Leigh is the latest film star to portray Cleopatra. You can't call yourself a young old-timer if you don't remember Theda Bara played Cleopatra.

... One out of every four marriages in the USA is by a justice of the peace. People who have church weddings stay married the longest. "Elisabeth and Elisabeth are two different names," writes a New Yorker named Elisabeth. "The former is a Biblical name; the latter is not. So stop criticizing girls named Elisabeth who spell our name with an 's', which is correct."

HORSES AND WOMEN: "I have been married to an Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) woman for 35 years and have enjoyed every minute of it," writes a Chicagoan. "Only trouble with Aquarius women is that they plan too much. Future, future, future is their motto." ... A young woman of Boston writes: "So the star-gazers say Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) women are not usually very affectionate. That they are cold. It may be that Virgo women do have a cold aloof way about them. But that is only on the exterior." ... "My first husband was a Cancer (June 21-July 22) man. I know several women who have husbands born under this sign."

writes a New Yorker. "I won't say Cancer men are tight, but the way they watch money is enough to give a wife a nervous breakdown. They are sticklers for budgets and want to know how every penny has been spent. Besides, they never get their minds off business. They make a second office out of their homes."

ALL WOLVES: Writes a Chicago secretary: "So a female office worker states she is the only girl in an office where 73 men are employed. She added that all the men were 'so nice' and that none was 'wolves.' Poor girl! I am sincerely sorry for her. What a dull working day she must have. In our office are three girls and 107 men. Most of the men are married and the others are all on the brink of matrimony. They are all wolves! There is not a harmless man in the lot. The truth probably is all men are wolves at heart and are deeply flattered to be addressed as such. It helps their ego. The presence of the 107 wolves in our office adds zest to the working day of us three girls. Never a dull moment!"

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: About 90 per cent of the men you see ailing Pekinese dogs after dark are over six feet in height. Why is it that women who have the smallest dogs always have the largest husbands? ... Have you a photograph of the place you lived in during your first year of marriage? If not, cease calling yourself a sentimental person. Did you carry your bride over the threshold of your honeymoon home? A Bostonian recently wrote me: "I carried my bride over the threshold of our bungalow at the beach. She weighed 210 pounds. I weigh 135." Now that's what I call a romantic fellow.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Is a clam digger a fisherman or a farmer? A—A farmer. ... Q—You know a lot of people. Have you ever met a tall girl who was happily married to a short man? A—Certainly. I know many such couples. As a matter of fact, my mother was taller than my father. They were happily married for over 40 years. If it is a matter of a dance partner, perhaps a tall girl should worry about a difference in height. But when it comes to a life partner she should forget it. ... Q—Are you familiar with the song "The Bold McIntyres"? A—All I know of that ditty is as follows:

The Cuseys, the Rileys, the Murphys,
The O'Shaunnessys, even the Maguires.
Bow down to us low, as walking out we go.
We're the elegant and bold McIntyres.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate

THE TERRIBLE danger of the military trouble in Europe, in Honolulu, the Philippines and Japan, and even close-by Washington, was that the great American Army should carry out the destruction undertaken by the Nazis, the Japanese and the American Communists.

Westbrook Pegler

The grievances of the soldiers, too complex for complete understanding by civilians, are due in large part to honest human limitations and to commitments in our foreign policy.

The number of men in all the services was equal in size to the Belgian nation and about one-quarter of the population of France.

This enormous nation within our nation was organized and improvised quickly and largely by inexperienced men.

It operated under laws unfamiliar and oppressive to the millions who were so recently free civilians.

Any human mass of such size inevitably has its politicians and incompetents. These defects of magnitude built in haste were inevitable in the Army and Navy.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER who thinks he is aggrieved has a right to take his complaint to the commanding general, and eventually to the White House. But he is wrong when he acts in concert with one or more others to present demands to his superiors.

He then becomes harmful to his government, to his family at home and to his own liberties. An Army out of control and flouting military law is even more dangerous than the picket mobs of the CIO, because its members wear uniforms which the people have trustingly regarded as the apparel of their friends and protectors, not their enemies.

There is no force that can be called upon to protect the government of a nation from its own Army.

REVOLUTION would sweep the United States, and upstart adventurers, including both Communists and Fascists, would gather about them bands of armed looters to prey on the country which so recently they preserved from terror and pillage at the hands of two of the greatest fighting machines in history.

Government by elected authority would vanish before the guns and clubs of former American soldiers.

The American soldier in practical effect undoubtedly did lose much of his right as an individual to carry his gripes to the highest authority.

It is no consolation to him to say that this had to be in so great a force because units were shifting from place to place and continent to continent, and commanding officers were here today and gone tomorrow.

There was precedent for this denial, however, in the action of the United States Supreme Court these days in refusing, without a word of explanation, to hear appeals of citizens who believe they have been refused justice.

And there has been notorious example in the White House and the Roosevelt cabinet and family circle for the most luxurious extravagance, exploitation of position for personal benefit and the flagrant self-indulgence that complaining soldiers have attributed to the "big brass."

DO AIR FORCE colonels fly to football games while soldiers and their wives and children crawl across the country on sooty trains? If so, didn't Henry Morgenthau have a Coast Guard ship for his personal use during the worst shortages and use enlisted and commissioned men, paid by the taxpayers, to commute between Washington and his Dutchess County estate? Is it a wonder that a young major, having fought a combat war, selects a pleasant chateau and hires a dozen servants in inflated currency, when a President, not content with the White House and his own baronial mansion, prepares for himself a secret retreat in the Cumberlands for his precious seclusion and repose?

The trouble in the Army seems to have subsided and the complaints and criticisms and the actual injustices should pay off in permanent reforms.

It remains to be seen whether President Roosevelt really spoke for the American people in making commitments which would keep a million, more or less, American men abroad as soldier police for years to come. If the people won't supply the men, the program must be repudiated. Then, if another war comes, this generation, like the last one, will be blamed by propagandists for selfish default of a duty to preserve the peace, as though it were a demonstrable fact that peace could be maintained by the suppression of millions.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1—Right now Brian Aherne is in Berumda honeymooning with his attractive bride, the former Mrs. Eleanor de Liagre la Brou (thank Heavens I am writing it this time and not pronouncing it on the air). But the newlyweds won't have long to bask in the sun for Brian is due to report to RKO no later than March 1 to co-star with Laraine Day in "What Nancy Wanted."

I really hadn't realized that Brian had been off the screen for three years. Time certainly slips past, doesn't it? During that time he toured the camps of Europe with Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and recently he starred in a show on Broadway, "The French Touch." If "Christabel Cain" hadn't been postponed until September, Brian would have been working on the same lot with his ex, Joan Fontaine.

Brian Aherne

DONNA REED's husband and agent, Tony Owen, is doing all right by her, and her career is looking very bright, indeed, these days. She gets the coveted lead opposite the very popular Jimmy Stewart in "It's a Wonderful Life" for Frank Capra. Yes, it's a loan out for Donna, who recently signed a new deal with M-G-M. I am not checking this story with her because how can I be sure she won't stall as she did when she was being married in two days and said, when I asked her: "I have no matrimonial plans." But, anyway, she has been broken by Capra and it's a break with a capital B.

ARLEEN WHELAN was all ready to leave for New York to go into a stage play when she was offered the second lead in "Suddenly It's Spring," with Paulette Goddard and Fred MacMurrray. She accepted—influenced, no doubt, by the fact that she'll have Mitch Leisen for her director. Mitch is a very good women's director and it's a very excellent chance for Arleen, who hasn't made a picture since long before she married Hugh Owen. She went to New York and went on the stage and made a hit in "Doughgirls," but she feels it is important for her to have a picture.

PERSONAL TO KENNY DELMAR, the "Senator Claghorn" of Fred Allen's show: That offer just wired you by Jeffrey Bernard to play a big role in his new picture, "Don't Gamble with Strangers," is no joke, son. He wants you to do the same sort of thing you do on the air—I say "air," meaning hot air which is your specialty. Knowing how deeply you feel about the South, may I point out that this job would bring you to Southern California via the Chattanooga choo-choo, if you like. Or, if you aren't able to leave Allen's alley, it can be arranged for you to shoot your scenes in South Brooklyn—but believe me the movie fans would like to get a look at you, you young scamp.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: One reason Billy Rose and Eleanor Holm are in our town at this moment is because Billy has the story of his life all ready to sell. That ought to be a commodity easily disposed of, since he's had a very colorful career and it would lend itself to a very good musical comedy. I hear tell it's M-G-M that is most interested, but of course, that may be just rumor.

PRETTY HAZEL DAWN, age 18, the daughter of Hazel Dawn, musical comedy star and queen of the silent days, gets a very good break in "Marge" in the second lead, as Jeanne Crain's sister. Hazel has been on the 20th lot for over a year and this is her very first picture. When she was much younger she played a part for M-G-M in "The Youngest Profession," but since that time most of her time has been spent in studying to get ready for her 20th debut.

What happened to Dr. John Dusick, Bentley Ryan, et al; Louise Allbritton and Edmund O'Brien have taken up where they left off; Nigel Bruce's grandson is being named Jay Bruce Gould for his daddy and his grandpup; very cute idea Deanna Durbin has for her nursery—the walls are papered with her favorite cartoons; good news that Sam Wood will not have the serious operation at first reported. He is much better and is responding to penicillin treatment; Louise Fazenda visited the "Searching Wind" set to chat with her old friend ZaSu Pitts and the same day Jimmy Stewart dropped in to see David Niven. JOAN LESLIE and our war hero, John Howard, an attractive Troc twosome. Looks as if it might be a duet to keep an eye on; Clark Gable takes off for Palm Beach Sunday night. Yep, Dolly O'Brien is the attraction. She's still No. 1 in his life; Ramsay Ames and George Morgan, Frank's son, are beginning to make it look serious; Eddie Welch, one of our best comedy writers, is one of the town's best handicappers and the other day at Santa Anita, the only time I have been there, he had five out of eight winners. Did I stick with him? Nope! I wasn't that smart; Helmut Dantine has made arrangements to fly to Austria to see about bringing his mother to this country; Bob Hutton, who never went out with a girl during the first two weeks Lana Turner was away, escorted Lorraine Miller to Ciro's; Gov. Jimmy Davis of Louisiana arrives shortly to discuss a picture based on his life. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

THE WEEK BEFORE CHRISTMAS both Frances King and Harry Noble were in a Paris hospital in the clutch of an illness that gave way to American Army medical skill and tender nursing only after the victims had been at the point of death. . . . The partners in the best singing act of its kind in show-business had contracted a mysteriously malady while playing USO shows in Italy.

CLINICALLY speaking, the two young entertainers were headliners. . . . The particular bug which had lodged in their run-down systems (five and six shows a day and sleeper jumps in trucks, jeeps, box-cars and staff cars) was similar to the mosquito-borne germ, malaria. . . . But it wasn't. . . . It was malaria-like, plus. . . . It induced delirium, among other, quite little devastating effects—and interested observation of the patients by the hospital staff.

ONE NIGHT HARRY NOBLE—who arranges the duets which King and he sing and writes their "special material" called for a piano. . . . The medico on observation duty shrugged and prepared to take notes. . . . But the piano was wheeled alongside Harry's hospital bed. . . . Harry was humming and shuffling some scraps of paper on which he had scratched some couplets. . . . As the piano was shoved through the door of his room, he turned suddenly on the Army doctor in attendance and exclaimed: "A Kiss Is a Delicate Thing!"

THE DOCTOR—with some reason—was startled at this sudden turn of events. . . . Even when Harry, weak and wide-eyed but conscious and mentally normal, explained that "A Kiss Is a Delicate Thing" was the title of a song he had composed while convalescing, the young medico kept his distance. . . . The piano started up, then. . . . And Harry was singing. . . . The doctor was not reassured fully, however, until Mr. Noble—excited and happy—made the very normal request that they bring in his partner, the young lady known professionally as Frances King. . . . This request was out of line, as the feminine half of Noble and King was in the women's ward and not doing quite so well as her partner in making a recovery.

SO HARRY NOBLE played "A Kiss Is a Delicate Thing" for himself and the doctor and the nurse. . . . This produced an audience reaction, but it was not exactly the kind the young composer wanted. . . . The doctor listened intently, and took careful note of the words. . . . They seemed to make sense, and the doctor. . . . xx-ed out his note: "Patient delirious—demanded piano."

IT WAS FOUR WEEKS LATER—at the Copley Plaza's Oval Room—that Mr. Noble's new song received its first unbiased audience reaction. . . . It was sensational. . . . If you don't hear the new Noble song on the hit parade before six months have passed, you may conclude that the Tin Pan Alley oracles whose job it is to pick song hits, do not agree with audiences at the Oval Room. For "A Kiss Is a Delicate Thing," a lovely aria that gives Miss King her best opportunity to show off her pure lyric soprano, is the hit of the Noble and King repertory.

THESE TWO YOUNG SINGERS are so thrilling in their two-part harmony that a lover of music owes a duty to himself or herself to hear them while they are playing here.

IT WAS HERE in Boston, at the Sature Room, that Noble and King came first to critical attention. . . . Everyone loved them, including Oscar Hammerstein, 2d, who used to drop in at the tiny Sature Room to hear them sing a Harry Noble arrangement of "Dick Rogers' score, and "Oklahoma" score, and "The Way You Looked Tonight," by the late Jerome Kern who was Mr. Hammerstein's collaborator before he joined talents with Rodgers.

NOBLE AND KING CAME TO BOSTON then as headliners at the Oval Room of the Plaza. . . . Duty to the troops overseas called the young partners next. They returned to civilian life and appropriately enough, Boston is their first port of call.

This couplet fell in love with their talent when Harry and Frances appeared here first in 1942. . . . One of the thrills of this reporting business is that of having a "discovery" fulfill the predictions of top-flight success. Harry and Noble's charming and original songs getting the attention they rate?

IN ADDITION to the tunes by Mr. Noble mentioned above he has composed a lovely thing called "The Yodel Waltz" . . . "A Kiss Is a Delicate Thing" belongs in operetta, and so does "The Yodel Waltz" . . . For that matter, so does "Little White Donkey." We are passing the tip along to Jack Robbins. . . . But our tip to you, dear reader, is to plan dinner or supper at the Oval Room before Harry Noble and Frances King finish their Boston engagement. . . . They are wonderful.

Washington Scene

Copyright, 1948, King Features Synd., Inc.

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 1—Before leaving Washington I asked Miss Reid to keep me posted on important developments. I could now like to present my case to the jury.

The first piece of evidence, which I would like to have marked Exhibit A, is a clipping to the effect that Arthur Bradley Campbell, millionaire son of the late Marchioness of Salisbury is around these parts looking for a wife.

Appendix Miss Reid: "Check on this for me, will you?"

IN MY ASSENCE, the beautiful, if eccentric, damsel seems to have become madly infatuated with Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado. You will recall she reported the other day that Sen. Johnson wishes a mountain in his State named after Gen. Eisenhower. Now she follows it up with this:

"Sen. Johnson has received a suggestion that old Mount Baldy just south of Pike's Peak be renamed Eisenhower Peak."

"It is certainly bold," Sen. Johnson said, "and there is good fishing not far away. Then we would have Pike's Peak and Ike's Peak side by side."

I do not get the fishing connection, but Miss R. apparently does, she baffles me further by adding:

"The official name of Mount Baldy is 'Almagre Mountain.' The Senator says 'Almagre' means having a reddish cast and also that the name Colorado means red."

The strain of absorbing as much knowledge must be awful.

The young lady continues: "For the last week I have been driven nuts by the clock in the Senate restaurant. It always reads 8:58. I asked a waiter and he said it was probably broken."

"But I asked Senate Secretary Lea Biffle and he explained it was because of the FEPC filibuster, which has been going on for days and days. The clock was deliberately stopped, because whenever a debate like this is started it continues to be the same legislative day until it is ended—no matter how many days elapse on the calendar."

So she's watching clocks now, too?

MISS REID further reports she has been attending sessions of the special committee on atomic bomb control, headed by Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut.

"People were mulling all over the place," she continues. "The room was lousy with photographers (wait till they hear that). There were four large movie cameras—you know, that kind that buzzes and is on a stand like the Bernard Brothers (the latter is a comedy team which sends Miss Reid into hysterics)."

"There were flood lights on stands and everybody ended up a little blind. We felt like criminals getting the third degree (Miss Reid has a long criminal record, having been a member of the old Tweed ring)."

"When Sen. Johnson (that man again!) entered the hearing room he looked at the lights and moved to the other side saying:

"I'm afraid I'll be electrocuted on that side." I talked to him later and he said: 'If they have the couch machinery out at sea where they are going to test the atomic bomb I don't think I'll go.'"

MISS REID, who is almost as devoted to Secretary of the Interior Ickes as she is to Sen.

By George Dixon

Johnson, forwards a statement by Old Harold which he suggests changes in the McMahon bill to establish our atomic policy.

Ickes thinks he should be on the atomic energy commission, probably because he is such an authority on gas.

Miss Reid has ringed a number of Mr. Ickes' cracks and comments. In one place he refers to the "refugee diplomats," although I understand they have been around quite a time and speak English very good. In another spot, in his most florid Ickian manner, he says:

"In such a situation it has become necessary to set up a co-ordinating agency to co-ordinate the new agency with the old agencies and perhaps a few liaison officers to co-ordinate the co-ordinators, and then maybe a few top-level super-duper to get the whole thing straightened out."

At another point, in which he advocates that fissionable materials be made available to all reliable manufacturers, he adds:

"However, I am not prepared to say that anybody who steps up to the counter should be entitled to a pound of fresh plutonium."

CONTINUING To keep me abreast of capital developments, Miss Reid goes on:

"Rep. Albert Gore and Percy Priest of Tennessee put on a show at the USO the other night. Priest did a dance called the Mountain Flatfoot."

"Mr. Gore was pretty put out when he opened his violin case. He has a very valuable one. But it seems his 8-year-old daughter, Nancy, had taken it out and substituted her own fiddle—a thing her father made her out of an old beat-up cigar box."

Apparently that's everything that's going on in Washington. Must be one unending round of gaiety!

GI Brides, In-Laws Face Trying Time

By BETH WHEELER

(Wife of Associated Press Correspondent Romney Wheeler. She has just undergone the process of being transplanted to a foreign country.)

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP)—So you're going to be a GI in-law after the Argentina docks in America with her load of brides from Britain? It'll be an adjustment period, and qualities of tolerance and understanding will be necessary on both sides.

Joe's bride, and hundreds like her, will be frightened of a new country, of a completely strange environment, and most especially, of what you'll think of her.

Most of them are very young, without members of their own families to talk to, and with thousands of miles separating them from all they call home.

You have no idea how much a cup of tea means to them. It's more than something to drink. It's the easiest way for an English person to show kindness, and to an English girl a cup of tea is like the average man's friendly glass of beer.

Of course, Joe's bride probably will want to teach Americans to make tea "properly." First of all, Americans don't warm the teapot. You don't make the tea strong enough. And then you have those awful teaballs which you put into cups, frequently without boiling water. But remember, our GIs thought British coffee was pretty awful.

Be tolerant, too, if Joe's bride seems critical sometimes of the American way of life. English girls frequently are when something is strange and new.

Many GI brides are afraid America will be "too fast" for them. Actually, they don't know exactly what they fear. But they have heard their husbands and other GIs extol the speed of America, and explain how Americans get things done while Britons muddle. Don't try to run Joe's bride off her feet at first.

Be tolerant, if she expresses surprise or disappointment over shortages and absence of glamor. Her homesick GI painted it a bit rosy. Be tolerant, too, if occasionally she draws unfavorable comparisons. She'll probably be homesick as well.

Recovers Stolen Car Plus $40 Parking Bill

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Richard C. C. San, Chinese graduate student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will get his stolen sedan back—and probably a $40 parking bill with it.

The 1942 car was stolen while San was at a party New Year's eve. Shortly after the thief took it, he left it in a parking lot nearby, where the car remained until a lot attendant discovered it early today. Police said San would probably have to pay for the month's involuntary storage.

Also listed were medical and dental officers with adjusted service rating score of 60 points or 39 months' service or those more than 45 years old as eligible for discharge.

Solons Claim Reds Inspire GI Protests

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Rep. Dondero (R) of Michigan formally inquired of the War Dept. if its policy of permitting the commissioning of Communists in the Army was still in effect. Dondero stressed that since the department's directive of Dec. 30, 1944, allowing commissioning of Reds, the Communist party had reappeared on the American scene as a revolutionary group aiming at the overthrow of the government.

Concurrently, the House Military Affairs Committee called on the War Dept. to cancel the directive on the basis of overwhelming evidence that Communists were agitating among members of the armed forces.

Rep. Crawford (R.) of Michigan asserted:
"There is positive proof of the leadership of American Communists in many overseas demonstrations."
"Lt. Gen. Charles P. Hall in Japan has warned that subversives will take the cue from these uprisings and their next steps will be sabotage. His chief of staff has declared that subversive forces are deliberately at work attempting to undermine the morale of our Army."

"Col. Charles A. Mahoney in Yokohama declared the protest demonstration against War Sec. Patterson was stirred up by Communists among the soldiers."

"The Communist agitators are operating on the same party line as the gang that is attempting to kick out Gen. MacArthur and who misrepresent his every move."

"The campaign being waged among our troops should not come as a surprise. Congress was warned that the War Dept. was commissioning Communists and even placing them in strategic places."

Italy to Put Curb On Delinquency

ROME, Feb. 1 (INS)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Italian government launched a twofold campaign today to reaffirm the authority of the state in southern Italy and Sicily and to crush delinquency.

In Sicily, one problem of the government is to wean away from the bandit tradition youths who are fighting under "the delusion of separatism."

Tuesday at 9 a. m. Capt. Horton will be processed through the Hotel Lincolnshire headquarters of the WAVES, along with a number of the young women she commanded.

A reception will be held later at First Naval Dist. Headquarters in Causeway st.

Two Boys Freed In School Fire

Two Jamaica Plain boys, 11 and 12, were today freed by a jury in the juvenile session of Suffolk Superior Court after a two-day trial on charges of delinquency in connection with $47,000 fire damage to the Bowditch school in Green st., Jamaica Plain.

The boys had appealed Lyman school sentences imposed in West Roxbury court. A 13-year-old boy is now in Lyman school and two other boys, 9 and 10, are on probation for complicity in the three fires last spring which caused the damage to the school.

Police had charged the boys were involved in the starting of three fires in the school within a period of three weeks and also were part of a gang which wrought considerable damage to a 21-room mansion on Rossmore st., Jamaica Plain, owned by Alex. Phillips of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay.

Curley Aids Tax Delinquents

Boston home owners and others who are in arrears in payments on their real estate taxes can make partial payments, Mayor Curley declared today.

The mayor said he had learned persons of small means are going to loan agencies to borrow money for payment of taxes in order to save their homes from being taken.

"Even if your taxes are in arrears," the mayor said, "the 4 per cent per annum charged by the city is far less than the 3 per cent, plus cost, per month charged by the loan agencies."

A—Eligible for vocational training under Public Law 16 which applies only to disabled veterans and will not result in any loss of pension. Pension may be granted as permanent or temporary, depending on nature of case. I don't know of any 10-year pension plan which you write about. Regarding courses in journalism, suggest you contact Veterans Information Bureau, State Dept. of Education, 200 Newbury st., Boston. This office has complete list of schools approved by Collegiate Board, Veterans Administration, for those interested under GI Bill of Public Law 16.

Q—The Coast Guard as peace-time career has interested me since reading about it in the local papers. I am 17 years old and have my parents' consent to enlist. During the past three summers I worked at a boys' camp as a cook's helper. What opportunity would I have to pursue this line in the Coast Guard? L. C. Somerville.

Reporters to Fly On Constellation

A group of 42 newspapermen, including Thomas J. Berube of the Boston Evening American, took off from La Guardia Field, New York, today on a round trip to the West Coast in which Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. will demonstrate its new Constellation service.

The group will fly back this week-end in one of the new Constellation airliners, which TWA will put into transatlantic service next week and on the line's transcontinental routes soon after. Piloting the plane on the return journey will be Jack Frye, TWA president and only airline head who holds a commercial transport pilot's license.

The plane will reach Burbank, Cal., early this evening and tomorrow the group will get an inside view of the Lockheed plant where the Constellations are being manufactured. They will board one of the new Constellations early Sunday for the return trip, making one stop at Chicago.

just as "Vishinsky" put a Soviet government into Romania.

Bevin also charged Stalin had said he would not interfere because of his confidence in British policy in Greece.

Vishinsky charged the "presence of British troops has been used time and again by reactionaries against democratic groups."

He added: "This is a danger to peace and security and is the reason why the Soviet Union thought it necessary to bring it to the attention of the Security Council."

After a quiet and orderly presentation of the Soviet argument against the continued presence of British troops in Greece, Vishinsky suddenly lashed out with:

"The Soviet government insists upon the immediate withdrawal of British troops from Greece."

Commenting on statements Greece does not object to the presence of British troops, Vishinsky looked directly at Greek Ambassador Agnides and said:

"The Greek government is making a mistake in not taking into consideration the effect of the presence of foreign troops."

He cited several instances where "private" governments have been established in Greek areas. Then he added:

"The British have often been used as a bulwark by Royalist and Fascist groups to justify their terrorist actions."

The Soviet vice-commissar continued:

"It has been said the presence of British troops on Greek soil is with the consent of the Allied governments. This is not true as far as the Soviet government is concerned. The war is over and the presence of British troops in Greece endangers the internal situation."

"In accordance with government instructions, the Soviet delegation insists on speedy and unconditional withdrawal of British troops from Greece."

Vishinsky paused a moment and then said, amid laughter:

"That is all!"
Greek Ambassador Thanassis Agnides, following Bevin's speech, declared the people of Greece regard the presence of British troops as an "extremely important factor in maintaining security."

He denied Vishinsky's allegation that at the time of the Potsdam declaration, Greece intended to attack Albania and Bulgaria.

Burlesque Ban Hit

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Cries of "take it off, take it off" may again ring through New York's now-darkened burlesque houses if Mayor William O'Dwyer heeds a suggestion by Actors Equity.

The actors' union described burlesque as the "poor man's musical comedy" and asked the mayor to return it to New York's stages from which it was banned about seven years ago.

commission, as is the customary practice.

Shortly after the Legion letter was made public, Millard Rice, public relations director of the Disabled American Veterans, gave this statement:

"Give the man a chance. He has only been in office six months but has been striving nobly to overcome the unsatisfactory conditions he inherited. An investigation now would only further delay his work."

Chairman Rankin (D.) of Mississippi, of the House veterans committee, in a speech to the representatives, said:

"This is the most unjust attack on the Veterans Administration I ever heard. I have the record of this man Stelle and I think he had done the American Legion an injustice."

"Gen. Bradley told me he hasn't been able to get enough help, has only been in charge of the administration a short time, and he's doing the best he can. Don't forget there are many more veterans now than ever before."

Rep. Rogers (R.) of Massachusetts, a veterans committee member, also told the House Bradley was facing difficulties in assembling a sufficient staff to process veterans' claims and suggested he be allowed to borrow workers from other government offices for the time being.

Among those contending "something's wrong in the Veterans Administration" were Reps. Fulton (R.) of Pennsylvania, Harless (D.) of Arizona

Wainwright Gun

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (INS)—Wainwright could stop wonderin' today about what happened to his favorite hunting rifle on Bataan.

The general was stopped by a familiar voice as he walked among veterans of Bataan and Corregidor at Gardiner General Hospital yesterday. Maj. Gen. Franklin Anders, of Racine, Wis., said:

"If you ever wondered about what happened to that hunting gun you liked so much, I can tell you. I buried it the day after you left, so the Japs couldn't find it."

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

LET'S DANCE! The first dance of the evening belongs to your escort. It is very bad form for a young woman to accept an invitation to dance with another man before she has had her "duty" dance with her escort.

38—Boston American, Feb. 1

AS WE NEAR the end of the diet series . . . we hope you're still the cheerful little careful and a new eye for your colleagues, friends and relations. Which statement spotlights a question from a reader-reducer who writes she's been a "faithful follower" . . . has enjoyed "wonderful results" . . . but is "burning with curiosity."

"Why do you stress milk every day in the diet?" she asks. "I've had more milk with this diet than I've had for a long while."

The latter admission isn't good . . . for milk is a body-builder. For how else would babies grow into adulthood? As grownups we are too willing to leave the milk-drinking to children . . . unmindful of its high quality provision of protein, calcium, vitamins A and G.

While dieting . . . some women have a tendency to become irritable and nervous.

Drinking milk may improve the dispositions of those who drink it . . . we find a beauty angle in everything. But truly the secret in reducing irritability is that milk is one of the best sources of calcium. And there is a definite relation between the amount of calcium in the blood and the individual's disposition . . . and people who have a calcium deficiency not only are subject to poor teeth . . . but are likely to have an irritable nature.

How's your charm rating lately? As we grow older and our physical activity "ain't" and can't be what it used to be . . . the need for calories grows less but not for the protective foods. It may even be greater. For . . . according to the experts . . . nervous energy requires more vitamins than calories. And while taking off pounds . . . a woman needs to protect the nervous energy which self-denial accents.

So milk plays a large and important and protective part in even a dieter's regime. And it does in our today's blue print for the woman who does hard, physical labor.

If you're a factory worker . . . if your daily toil is comparable in the expenditure of physical energy to farm work . . . if you are active all day in a job that demands constant attention to hard work and "back-breaking" physical output . . . your meals must be balanced on the heavy side.

Not fat-producing . . . mind you . . . but meals that are purposely designed to put marrow in your bones . . . good, red blood in your veins . . . and to give you that trite but true vim, vigor and vitality.

Here is blue print for the very active woman:
BREAKFAST: Fresh fruit or fruit juice; enriched or whole wheat bread with butter; whole grain cooked or dry cereal with whole milk; eggs or meat or some other protein food; coffee or milk preferably.

LUNCH: Meat or other protein food, such as fish, eggs, cheese, dried peas or beans, peanut butter; a yellow or green vegetable or a fruit or vegetable salad; bread with butter; fruit or some other simple dessert; milk.

DINNER: Meat, fish or fowl or other protein foods; at least two cooked vegetables, one yellow, one green; fruit, vegetable or green salad; bread with butter; fruit, custard pudding or some other simple dessert; milk, coffee or tea.

It may sound like a heap to eat but your nervous and physical energy requires protective and nutritional body fuel.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, we conclude the diet series and print the last two days' menus.

This Cream Keeps Skin Supple All Year Round

THERE'S LOGIC IN A LABEL and love in a tag name. Any woman who owns a top-name designer creation very rarely discusses the quality of the garment . . . the expert workmanship of its dressmaker touch . . . or the high-styling of its lines . . .

But invariably she'll keep drooping it's a so-and-so original . . . as if you should have known it to begin with . . . and with a boastful charm in her voice that's strictly not from hunger. It's only natural . . . it's definitely feminine . . . it's the love of a life . . . for pride is vanity with a one-story foundation.

Perhaps you can't buy this noted designer's creations . . . but her cosmetics are well within the financial limits of of any fastidious woman's purse. But to own one of her beautiful cosmetic jars . . . with her crest and undisputed top-flight signature scrolled across it . . . is like issuing a calling card announcement that you're a woman who appreciates the prestige things in life.

And when you do . . . you'll stick out the jar on the most prominent spot on your dressing table for your friends and relatives to glimpse deeply cognizant of your upper-crust likes. Which is by way of introducing you to a blue jar of hand and body cream . . . if you're that kind of a luxury-loving female.

This cream makes no distinction between hands and body skin . . . since its aim is to keep all the skin of your body and hands as smooth as down. Delicately scented and softening . . . it helps keep skin supple and smooth all year round . . . vanishes instantly . . . and forms a sheer, invisible film to help protect against dryness and roughness. Use it over all your body after your bath . . . and each time you wash your hands . . . for the gesture that caresses with loveliness.

For the name of this prestige beauty item, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 400, or write Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Originality in Seasoning Secret of Popular Soups

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

AS LONG AS THE weatherman predicts low temperatures, the problem in cooking is to have new hot dishes that will satisfy hearty appetites. And the answer is often found in a good-flavored chowder or a substantial soup.

When seasoned right and served piping hot, soup makes an appetizing meal for the most critical family. Originality in seasoning will do much to change the flavor of the soup each time it is served. Get variety by choosing among onion, celery leaves, pepper corns, bay leaf, parsley, sweet basil, thyme and any of your other favorite herbs.

You can make a complete meal from a bowl of rich chowder, if you serve with it plenty of crisp crackers, a cool salad, and some simple dessert.

CORN CHOWDER

1 2-in. square fat salt pork
(12-3 cup)
1 large onion, sliced
2 lbs. pared potatoes (4 cups diced)

2 cups boiling water
1 12-oz. can whole grain corn
(12-3 cup)
4 cups milk
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

1/2 tsp. paprika
Cut salt pork into 1/2-inch cubes and brown well in large saucepan. Add onion and cook tender. Add diced potatoes and water, cover, and cook until potatoes are tender. Add corn, milk and seasonings. Heat and serve. Makes 6 servings as a main dish.

OYSTER BISQUE

1 pint oysters
1 slice onion
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 sprig parsley
1-3 cup butter or margarine
1-3 cup flour
1/2 tsp. pepper

Drain oysters and chop. Heat oysters with drained liquor just to boiling point. Force oysters and liquid through a sieve. Scald milk with onion, bay leaf, celery, and parsley. Melt butter, stir in flour, salt and pepper, and when well blended add strained scalded milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Add pureed oysters, and season with more salt and pepper if necessary. Reheat and serve. Makes 6 servings.

Many people are under the impression that all homemade soup takes hours of cooking. Here are two quick, delicious and inexpensive creamed vegetable soups for the family's winter meals. The secret of speed is to grate or chop the raw vegetables so they need only brief cooking.

QUICK TURNIP SOUP

Enough quick turnip-soup is made to serve six people by heating 1 quart of milk in a double boiler with a halved onion for seasoning. Then thicken the milk by stirring in 1 tsp. of flour blended with 2 tsp. fat. Finally, add 2 cups of grated raw turnip and 1 tsp. fat. Cook about 10 minutes until the turnip is tender. Remove the onion and serve immediately.

CREAMED VEGETABLE SOUP

For creamed mixed vegetable soup, heat 1 quart of milk in a double boiler. While it heats, cook 2 tsp. each of finely chopped turnip, carrot, onion and celery in 2 tsp. fat for 10 minutes. Stir 1 tsp. of flour into vegetables. Then add the hot milk gradually, and finally salt to taste. Cook 10 minutes before serving.

PREPARED SOUPS

Prepared soups are good also because they are made of vegetables and meats of the highest quality, and an ingenious and exacting hand is used in their seasonings. If you like your foods to show the evidence of your own ingenuity when you bring them to the table, you might combine two of the soups to give a brand new tantalizing blend of flavor. For example, a can of cream of mushroom soup heated with a can of chicken soup makes mushroom soup, southern style. It is a combination that gives a meal real distinction. A can of cream of spinach soup combined with a can of cream of mushroom soup is another good choice. A third combination is made with canned corn chowder and cream of tomato soup.

Russia Eases Iran Control

TEHRAN, Feb. 1 (AP)—A source close to Premier Ahmed Qavam es Soltane announced today negotiations already were under way for opening direct discussions between Iran and Russia on the Azerbaijan dispute.

Meanwhile, a further relaxation in Russia's control over entry into Azerbaijan, where Iranian troop reinforcements have been barred, was announced today.

The Iranian ministry of agriculture said the Russian commandant in northern Iran had issued a permit for the Iranian local control commission to enter Azerbaijan. Russian control of railways in northern Iran was relinquished to the Iranian state railways earlier this week.

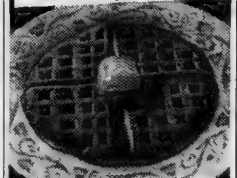

Victory Garden

LINDSBORG, Kan., Feb. 1 (AP)—Anna Dahlsten is about ready to harvest a tomato crop from her geraniums. She potted geraniums last fall and apparently got a tomato seed mixed in. Today the "geranium" plant is three feet tall and has two large tomatoes.

EXPLOSIVES NEAR WAR TRIAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (INS)—A London radio broadcast heard by NBC said today 100 pounds of explosives and two five-foot torpedoes had been found by U. S. soldiers within a mile of the Nurnberg war crimes court house.

In their 10-day drive to aid the Victory Clothing Collection, Boston's 100,000 school children brought approximately 500,000 garments to the 182 schools participating, Dennis C. Haley, assistant superintendent of schools, reported today.

Because of last minute contributions, a final estimate on Boston's war relief clothing campaign will be delayed several days, Edward J. Hyland, Greater Boston drive chairman, said.

He reported a surge of contributions in the last week swamped local depots as fast as they were cleared.

Walter Brennan Steals 'Dakota' Acting Honors

By PEGGY DOYLE

That old scene-stealing hometown boy, Walter Brennan, is at it again. On Paramount and Fenway screens currently, he is giving another of his priceless performances. It is in the John Wayne-Vera Hruba Ralston co-starrer, "Dakota."

"Dakota" has a stock Western plot but Republic's associate producer-director Kane has given it a generous production, an adaptation by Hollywood's ace scripter, Howard Estabrook, a pair of stars and a trio of starring supporting actors to yank it out of the run-of-the-mill department.

Wayne, one of the handsomest Westerners in the picture business (he was actually born in Winter-set, Ia.), is also at his convincing best in this latest outdoor job.

And that goes for Vera Hruba Ralston, who glided into pictures on a magic pair of silver stalks, experienced some uncertainty when she faced her first screen audiences without them and now is at ease and is competent as well as charming.

As the young couple gone west to wheat-rangin' Dakota, where Vera's father is planning to extend his railroad, they are duck-soup for a couple of bad-men upon arrival.

Ward Bond, smooth and likable, and "Big Mike" Mazurki, the former All-America with a genuine talent for acting, are first-rate as the baddies. Bond, feigning a magnanimous concern for the farmers, is secretly planning to outsmart them by grabbing their land and cashing in on its rail-bed potentialities.

There are several killings, some spectacular scenes of flaming wheatfields, gunfights and river-boat Capt. Brennan's own demolition of his conspire, blanketty-blank boat. This last sequence is no minor bit of action with the following, roaring, damnation-minded Brennan consigning to tarnation the boat he has loved and fought with like a wife down the years.

Just Brennan alone is worth the price of admission. His is a lulu of a performance.

GETS BAD NEWS — Father O'Malley (Bing Crosby) learns that one of his favorite pupils in "The Bells of St. Mary's" is not to be graduated. This heart-warming comedy drama dealing with the tribulations and triumphs of a group of parochial schools runs now in its sixth week on Keith Memorial screen.

VERA HRUBA RALSTON

tion by Hollywood's ace scripter, Howard Estabrook, a pair of stars and a trio of starring supporting actors to yank it out of the run-of-the-mill department.

Wayne, one of the handsomest Westerners in the picture business (he was actually born in Winter-set, Ia.), is also at his convincing best in this latest outdoor job.

And that goes for Vera Hruba Ralston, who glided into pictures on a magic pair of silver stalks, experienced some uncertainty when she faced her first screen audiences without them and now is at ease and is competent as well as charming.

As the young couple gone west to wheat-rangin' Dakota, where Vera's father is planning to extend his railroad, they are duck-soup for a couple of bad-men upon arrival.

Ward Bond, smooth and likable, and "Big Mike" Mazurki, the former All-America with a genuine talent for acting, are first-rate as the baddies. Bond, feigning a magnanimous concern for the farmers, is secretly planning to outsmart them by grabbing their land and cashing in on its rail-bed potentialities.

There are several killings, some spectacular scenes of flaming wheatfields, gunfights and river-boat Capt. Brennan's own demolition of his conspire, blanketty-blank boat. This last sequence is no minor bit of action with the following, roaring, damnation-minded Brennan consigning to tarnation the boat he has loved and fought with like a wife down the years.

Just Brennan alone is worth the price of admission. His is a lulu of a performance.

A Stupid Man's Confusion About the Strike Issues

By AUSTEN LAKE

I HOPE NO UNION BOSS will reprimand me for my dumb, lard-headed confusion over the industrial strikes now going on. Because I like nothing better than to see everybody get lots of wages and be able to buy lots of new things. So it makes sweet music to my ears to hear the Strike Bosses say that the issue is "whether U. S. industry stands ready to gear our ability to consume to our enormously expanded production capacity."

That sounds pretty swell if the Strike Bosses, some of whom I knew during the pre-war slow-down and sit-down strikes in Michigan, mean what I think they do. I think they mean "the more industry pays its workers, the more the workers will have to spend"—hence greater fluid wealth, purchasing power, industrial markets and national prosperity. That's wonderful!

Austen Lake

Everybody Would Like More Pay

BUT HERE'S WHERE I get confused! Because so far U. S. industry hasn't had a chance to begin its "enormously expanded production" and the strikers are said to be losing $13,500,000 a day in wages alone. The war is over some six months and industry isn't making much of anything as yet. So the strikers who demand 20 per cent more pay have not produced anything to sell or buy and I trust that the Strike Bosses are not selfish enough to restrict the "ability to consume" only to their own unions, employing about 1,200,000 workers, who are only a small part of our citizens who would love to get more wages and buy more things, including shiny new de luxe autos, and T-bone steaks, and radios and gadgets made of steel.

My stupidity in this matter is such that I will sharpen my pencil and invite the Strike Bosses to peer over my shoulder while I do some grammar-school figuring. I will suppose that President Truman's No. 1 strike-conciliator, being a generous gent, will say, "Sure, boys! Next Saturday every striker will find a 20 per cent boost in his envelop." That makes the 1,200,000 strikers very happy and they give the conciliator and Mr. Truman three tigers and nine rabs. But he might just as well have granted them a 50 per cent boost and it would not have made any difference in the long run if he did.

So now the production chiefs of the industries whose payrolls have been boosted 20 per cent find that they have to revise their cost and price lists to make up not only the wage increase of their workers but have to pay higher for raw steel and other basic materials which go into their products, whether autos or iceboxes or baby buggies or stoves. This makes the other union members who have not struck very irritated. Because they do not see why they should die up the extra money for price increases to buy autos that used to cost $800 and $1200 and now cost $1000 and $1500, or 20 per cent more. They ask, "What about our consumer capacity?" So they demand "proportionate wage-booster, too, and call strikes if necessary. Suckers if they don't!"

So the production chiefs of the mine workers, railroads, electric plants and all unionized industry, after some hickering and bargaining, say "All right, boys and girls, you took a 20 per cent wage increase all around. Now is everybody happy? No. Because materials cost more due to higher labor wages, fabricating expense is greater, and so is shipping and merchandising. So this is piled on wholesale prices and the retailers have to do the same. In the end, the honest consumer, including the industrial worker, finds that the difference he pays for living costs just about matches his 20 per cent pay boost, but does not include the pay-hours he lost while striking, or the production scarcities due to delay. So he's nearly back to even again.

Who Gets It in the Neck?

IS THAT ALL? NO! There is a majority class of workers, like the farmer, small business employee, doctors, dentists, little shop owners, dressmakers and public employees, who don't belong to any organization and hence can't wander away any day in peace. The of course, is just "tough turkey." Let 'em nibble away at their bank savings! Let 'em economize if they can't afford the higher price tags and are obliged to keep on wearing outmoded clothes, autos and gadgets until they have lost what the Strike Bosses call their "capacity to consume."

This stagnates a large part of our markets. So the production chiefs are forced to cut down part of their manufacturing schedules to meet the slackened demands. They make a little less of everything, including shoes, egg beaters, hats, girdles, chicken wire, pencils, et cetera. And to do so they must lay off some of their workers, who promptly lose their "capacity to consume." So gradually they have to lay off more workers, which in time defeats the strike bosses' premise of "enormously expanded production capacity" because they find that fluid wealth, purchasing power, industrial markets and national prosperity have shriveled up. That's not so wonderful!

So, after a period, the Strike Bosses discover that the original 20 per cent pay boost no longer has any more buying power than the dollar did on Feb. 1, 1945. So they will get together again and decide "Shucks, what we need is another wage boost to keep our chins level with the tide." So they spearhead another general strike which touches off another national wage convulsion, which is loaded on the consumer's back, which by this time has curvature of the spine. So the vicious cycle is repeated and our vast non-union population grows poorer than ever.

Maybe after a succession of such wage boosts the Strike Bosses will crow to the workers, "Look what we did for you! Today you draw a weekly average of $240 instead of a lousy $85." To which the workers will reply glumly, "Yes, but it costs $194 to live a week instead of $55. Today a double-sawbuck doesn't buy what a finnik used."

And in the end the union strikers will wish in the secret caverns of their souls that they were back at the economic level of February 1, 1945, instead of being buried under a Chinese money inflation. Which won't benefit anybody except the Washington Administration, which will pay off our war bonds at the old dollar rate of issue.

If this sounds like a visionary's version of Aesop's Fables, just set it down to my ignorance. The only knowledge I have of such mysteries as "fluid wealth" and "consumer capacity" is the stupid notion that I must produce something to sell before I can demand wages for same. Is that too, too silly?

Corum Sees Williams Pacing Sox to Pennant

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (INS)—Always trying to bring a bit more song and sunshine into this already lightest and brightest of worlds, we have just tossed off a new song for the Boston customers called: "Red Sox, Why Are You Blue?" The chorus of this ditty for originality, it seems to us:

"This ain't no spring for has the best team of all. So, boys, stay away from old Back Bay, where the World Series will be played this fall."

Pretty neat, huh? We thought you'd like it. And the funny part is that the truth is stranger than the fiction, if possible. The Red Sox have got, we believe, the best team in the American League on paper, although on paper is never where pennants are won.

Still, the Yawkey walkie-talkies should have better pitching than our Yankees. For they will have the Harridge loop's most widely-louted prewar chucker, Ted Hughes, and it's wartime No. 1 hand, Boo Ferris, heading the corps.

They are going to give Ferris a locker right from the drop of the hat this year. Any time the alert management of the Sox sees a 20-game pitcher—and sees him prove it—it'll find him a spot to hang his hat.

Hughson, Ferris, Earl Johnson, Mickey Harris and the rest, however, the Bostoners probably won't have any better mound corps than Detroit.

In addition to other top hands, the Tigers always have Dizzy Trout, who can round out a pitching staff of five extra men.

And then, of course, in left there will be the big man. It was about the big man that Cronin wanted to talk most when we bumped into him with Eddie Collins at dinner time last evening.

It seems, according to the Red Sox chief, that the big man, who could be nobody except Ted Williams, of course, has put the things of his childhood behind him.

Formerly he was a Boston problem child. Cronin tells you that the war has changed that. Cronin said:

"He the most enthusiastic fellow you ever heard talk now, Bill. To hear him tell it, we've got the pennant all sewed up before the season starts. You've been picking us for the last 20 years and we haven't won for you yet. But maybe this really will be the year. Williams says so, anyhow."

And if the willowy young man with the willow says so, he's the fellow who could come mighty close to making his prediction come true. For Ted Williams as a ballplayer is so good that he can be almost what he wills to be on the diamond.

Toronto Police War on Gamblers

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (AP)—Mayor Robert Saunders, head of the Toronto Police Commission, has ordered the police to take action against reported gambling on hockey games at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

The action comes as an aftermath of the expulsion from the National Hockey League of Toronto's Babe Pratt on charges of violating the league's rules on gambling.

Bucc's Prize Rookie Signs Contract

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1 (AP)—Shortstop Billy Cox, prize rookie of the big Pittsburgh Pirate squad, who served four years in the Army and more than two years in the front lines of the ETO, signed his Bucc contract today.

Cox batted .363 with Harrisburg of the Interstate League in 1941 and looked good in 10 games with the Pirates at the end of the season.

Philly May Get N. H. L. Team

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (INS)—It appeared today that Philadelphia may be represented in the National Hockey League next season, but it was uncertain as to which of the circuit's two inactive franchises would change hands.

The inactive franchises are those of the Montreal Maroons and the New York Americans. Directors of the Maroons are willing to sell "at a price." Leonard A. Peto, Canadian sportsman, has made a tentative deal to move the inactive Maroons' franchise to Philadelphia. However, there are two possible objections.

One is that Peto has no agreement in writing with the league, but only a verbal O.K. to go ahead. The other is that it is reported in Montreal that Madison Square Garden, using the old Americans' franchise, also is bidding for the Philadelphia site.

BCH-Needham Top Schoolboy Ice Card

Hockey, eclipsed last week-end by the Northeastern track meet, returns to the center of the schoolboy stage tomorrow with a full program of 15 games scheduled among the four leagues. Only the Boston Conference will be idle this week-end.

The Greater Boston League, forced by ties in the standings to decide places by the flip of a coin, enters the playoff stage with tomorrow's games at the Garden starting at one p. m. The round robin that will continue for the next two weeks finds league-leading Medford meeting Newton, the only team holding a decision over the Mustangs; and Arlington and Rindge, deadlocked in the number two spot, battling it out again in the upper half.

The second division pairings list Cambridge Latin against Stoneham, with Melrose facing Belmont.

Over at the Arena at the same hour, the Bay State League swings into its semi-final session.

Headlining the card is the Needham-BC High clash where a triumph for the loop leading Needham sextet would assure them of at least a tie for the title. In another all-important battle, Waltham, with sights set on the Needham game next week, collides with last year's titlist, Walpole.

Mell Favorite In Garden Go

A last minute switch to Gus Mell has installed the Montreal youngster as the betting favorite for his 10-round bout with Johnny Cesario, feature attraction of the Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight.

Odds have been changing almost daily but an avalanche of support by Mell's backers will find him the choice to end Cesario's long winning streak which has found him unbeaten in 40 straight fights.

Mell has the punching power necessary to dump the North End on the canvas and keep him there.

Two bouts with NBA champion Sal Bartolo, has polished Mell to a great extent. His main weak-

Race Riot—Both entrants in a baby walker race at Miami, Paul Ledford and Patricia Ann Raab, forget the competition temporarily to engage in a tussle for something more interesting. Patricia Ann's no easy give-up however, and the ensuing howls form a fitting intermezzo for the event.

Daring

Displayed here on a model (center) is what may be expected in days to come. Hollywood designer Renie forecasts that American women are going to wear such evening gowns... with exposed bosoms. Jane Greer (left) looks over the predicted style, while Myrna Dell wears a dress that was popular after World War I.

End of Run

The reason this bus isn't on Broadway, Bayonne, N. J., is because its brakes gave way. It was parked on a slight incline when it started to roll backwards, crashed through an iron gate and landed in the ferry slip. No one was aboard the vehicle on its unscheduled trip. It's being rescued here.
